Each year, billions of animals are raised on factory farms and killed in slaughterhouses. These places pollute the air, earth, and water, and—according to the U.N.—raising animals for food causes more greenhouse-gas emissions than do all the cars, planes, ships, trains, and SUVs in the world combined. Animal agriculture is also one of the leading causes of deforestation! By pledging to eat less meat, you're taking a step to help animals and the environment.
