EVERY YEAR, MORE THAN 10 MILLION
FROGS, PIGS, CATS, AND OTHER ANIMALS
ARE USED FOR CLASSROOM DISSECTION.

Before frogs end up on dissection trays, they're snatched from their homes in nature, disturbing families and ecosystems; held and transported in filthy, cramped conditions; and finally killed.

THIS DOESN'T HAVE TO HAPPEN.

There are lots of modern, humane alternatives—such as computer simulators and dissectible models—that spare animals, are more effective at teaching students, and save schools time and money.
